1987 U.S. CLOSED CHAMPIONSHIP
and
1987 U.S. WOMEN'S CLOSED CHAMPIONSHIP

by Mark Wood

The top men and women of the country gathered together at the historic Stanley Hotel in Estes Park, Colorado for the U.S. Closed Championship and the U.S. Women's Closed Championship for the third sequential year. The U.S. Closed started November 1st, and the U.S. Women's Closed started November 7th; both tournaments finished up with an awards banquet on Wednesday evening, November 18th. Unlike the majority of tournaments in the United States (which are organized as Swiss System tournaments), the U.S. Closed Championships are structured as round robin tournaments (this year, 13 rounds for the men; 9 for the women). Although only a small handful of Colorado players appeared as spectators during the two and a half weeks of play, those who did make the trip were treated to some of the most exciting chess in the country.

Competition among such stellar participants was, needless to say, intense, and started with a big upset in the first round, when Walter Browne toppled Yasser Seirawan with Black. Going into the seventh round, there was an eight-way tie for first, with the rest of the field in close contention. Dmitry Gurevich was a puzzle; he started well in the initial rounds, but managed to miss such things as a mate-in-one against Gulko, and lost to Larry Christiansen when he had been a full piece ahead! (This last game earned Christiansen the prize for the Best Swindle!) The tournament favorites, Seirawan and Boris Gulko, held the lead until they each met Joel Benjamin in the eleventh and twelfth rounds, respectively. John (the Animal) Fedorowicz threw everything except the kitchen sink at Browne in the final round, but the resulting draw left him a half-point out of first. When the dust finally settled, Benjamin and Nick de Firmian tied, to reign as co-champions of the United States.

Although the U.S. Women's Closed Championship did not quite have the drama of the U.S. Closed, it had its moments of glory. With a towering 250 point rating advantage over her nearest competitor, Anna Achsharumova swept the tournament with an incredible 9-0, and was never in jeopardy of losing any of her games...shades of Bobby Fisher!? There is no doubt that Achsharumova will be a top contender for the women's world title, representing the United States against the current Soviet champion.

I found it very interesting to watch the women, especially since they seldom settled for a draw. In fact, there was only one "grandmaster draw" played in all the women's games, and that was a game in the last round which had a grand total of two moves! One reason for the seemingly more competitive chess among the ladies may be because the women do not have the same opportunity as the men to play chess professionally. Most of the women either go to school or have a full-time job totally separated from their chess. As a general statement, the women seldom get chances to play other women, let alone each other. This eliminates the tendency to offer draws based on friendship, and actually creates a more intensively competitive chess environment.

In the course of the tournament, there were, of course, numerous undercurrents and interesting interactions. Other prizes I believe could have been awarded for cause were:

BEST THEFT: My choice for this award must go to Max Dlugy for "borrowing" a clock to play speed chess. What made this theft outstanding was the fact that the clock he chose to "borrow" was still being used in a tournament game at the time!

GREATEST TACTICAL BLUNDER: This prize must be awarded to Danny Olim who was flown in to write the game bulletins. Danny's blunder occurred when he and several grandmasters decided that the women's games should not be included in the bulletins since their games were "unimportant," "irrelevant," and "nobody cared about them, anyway!" Unfortunately for Danny, this conversation took place in front of my Liz while she was volunteering her time to help type the men's games. One must also realize that she also was scheduled to transport a number of the women from Denver to Estes Park the next day. I can't say for sure what the ladies had to say, but it was quite interesting to meet Harold Winston, president of U.S.C.F., the very next day, and he was very interested in meeting with Liz and arranging for her to produce bulletins for the women!

FUNNIEST GRANDMASTER DRAW: No questions about it; Nick de Firmian and John Fedorowicz earned this prize. They are close friends who spent the entire night before their round partying, and looked a little the worse for wear the next day. The game started out quickly enough, with 20 or so moves rattled off in the first half hour. Nick then makes a move and offers a draw to John, who says that he would like to "think about it." As some of us who understand the two are friends and will probably draw are quietly chuckling, Nick gets up and leaves the tournament hall for about 30 minutes. In the mean time, John spends about 5 minutes looking at the position; he then spends the remaining time until Nick returns counting ceiling tiles. Nick finally returned and accepted the draw. A short time later, when the game was analyzed, it was determined that John indeed had had good winning chances at the point of the draw. The irony arises when one looks back and recalls that John finished half a point behind Nick and first place. This may be the most remembered G.M.draw of the tournament!

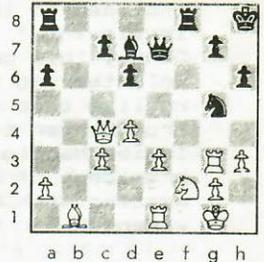

MOST ENERGETIC ANALYZER: Max Dlugy deserves a prize for his active expression of his opinion for any position! He must have been involved in every single post mortem analysis session, whether his game was still in process or not!

U.S. CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

Some of these game scores, including all those with notes, were taken from the excellent press releases sent out by USCF. The others are from tournament bulletins supplied by Mark Wood.

Drugy-Wilder (notes by IM Vincent McCambridge), QUEEN'S INDIAN: 1 d4, Nf6; 2 c4, e6; 3 Nf3, b6; 4 g3, Ba6; 5 Qa4 (a line that Drugy has made his speciality) e6 (Preparing an interesting gambit. 5...e5 is more common.) 6 Nc3, b5; 7 cb, cb; 8 N:b5, Qb6; 9 e3 (9 Nc3 is more common, when Black gains counterplay by 9...Bb4. Drugy's move is a counter gambit, allowing Black to win a piece but disrupting his position.) Bb7; 10 Be2, Bc6; 11 Qc4, Qb7; 12 0-0 a6; 13 Nc3, B:f3; 14 B:f3, Q:f3; 15 Qc8+, Ke7; 16 e4!, h5!; 17 d5 h4 (During the post-mortem, the players considered 17...Ng4! as interesting.) 18 d6+, $\frac{1}{2}$ - $\frac{1}{2}$. The players agreed to a draw in this totally unclear position.

deFirmian-Rohde, SICILIAN (notes by IM McCambridge): 1 e4, c5; 2 Nf3, d6; 3 d4, cd; 4 N:d4 Nf6; 5 Nc3, e6; 6 f4, a6; 7 Bd3, Be7; 8 0-0, 0-0; 9 Kh1, Nbd7; 10 Qf3, Qb6; 11 Nde2, Qc7 12 b4! (A very unusual move in this type of position, but the idea is to prepare the fianchetto of the bishop to b2, while preventing ...Nc5.) b6; 13 Bb2, Bb7; 14 Qh3, d5; 15 e5 Ne4; 16 Ng3, N:g3+; 17 hg, g6; 18 a3, b5?; 19 f5! After some confusion, Chief T.D. Dick Gardner ruled that time be added to deFirmian's clock, and the game was played out.) Kb6; 37 Be3+, 1-0.

THE NATIONAL HIGH SCHOOL CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP

April 15-17, 1988

Marriott Hotel
2101 Louisiana Blvd. NE
Albuquerque, New Mexico

The 1988 National High School Chess Championship invites every young chess player in Colorado to participate in this major scholastic chess event of 1988. There are no special qualifying requirements. Any United States student in grades K through 12 is eligible to participate.

A TOURNEY IN TWO SECTIONS

There will be two sections to choose from. The Open Section, open to all eligible students, is intended for more advanced players. The Junior Varsity Section is for newer, less experienced players.

Schools that enter two or more players in a section qualify for a team trophy. A school's team score is calculated by adding the points accumulated by its four top-scoring players in their section.

THE TOURNAMENT SITE

The National High School Chess Championship will be held in the ballroom of the Albuquerque Marriott Hotel. The modern, 400-room hotel is located in the heart of the city adjacent to two large shopping malls and numerous restaurants. The hotel is offering a special reduced rate of $49 per room (1-4 occupancy) for participants.

Local restaurants include McDonald's, Pizza Hut, Denny's, JB's Big Boy and Wyatt's Cafeteria. Food will also be available at the site.

SECTIONS

- HIGH SCHOOL OPEN SECTION.
Open to grades K-12.
- HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR VARSITY SECTION.
Open to grades K-12 with USCF ratings under 1500 or Unrated.

ENTRY FEES

- $15 per player if postmarked by March 31.
 - $25 per player thereafter.
- (No entries or substitutions of any kind accepted after 9 PM, Thursday April 14.)

TIME CONTROLS

Both sections: 25/1, SD/30.

SCHEDULE

Thursday, April 14
5-9 PM Late (on-site) registration and substitutions. No registrations or substitutions of any kind accepted after 9 PM.

Friday, April 15

PAWNDERING

by Dave Jellison

The Jackson Hole Grand Prix was held Oct. 17-18. This was a fun event in wonderful surroundings with the Tetons as a background. IM Jay Whitehead won with $4\frac{1}{2}$ - $\frac{1}{2}$. IM John Donaldson, NM Dave Jellison, and Canadian NM Dave Ross were second with $3\frac{1}{2}$ - $1\frac{1}{2}$. Lance Gill was TD.

The New Mexico Open was held in Albuquerque Oct. 31-Nov. 1. Mexican NM Arturo de la Garza was first with a perfect 5-0. Second with $4\frac{1}{2}$ - $\frac{1}{2}$ was NM Tom Keffer, the new state champion.

Congratulations to Randy Canney for achieving the Senior Master title!!

James Mann de Toledo has returned to Brazil, and has asked me to give his regards to the chessplayers of Colorado. I was amazed when he told me that his 4-0 smash in the Denver Open was his first victory ever in an open tournament! In Sao Paulo, he must perpetually deal with the likes of GMs Milos and Van Riemsdijk!

A SUMMER OF CHESS

by Alex Fishbein

This summer I played in three major chess tournaments: the U.S. Junior Championship, the World Open, and the U.S. Open. I also studied a lot. I was determined to do well in all the tournaments, and my preparation was specific. Overall, my results were good, but I could have definitely played better.

The U.S. Junior was perhaps the most important event. The 10-player round robin was very strong (Eight of the contestants were Senior Masters.), and I knew that victory would not be easy. Since I finished second last year, anything short of first place would be disappointing.

In the first round, I won an important game against Ben Finegold, whom I lost to in the '86 Junior. After a second-round draw with Adam Lief, I won four games in a row - against Alex Sherzer, Ron Barnett, Danny Edelman, and Burt Izumikawa. The following game was played in round 3:

Fishbein-Sherzer, SICILIAN: 1 e4, c5; 2 Nf3, e6; 3 d4, cd; 4 N:d4 a6; 5 Nc3, b5 (An unusual but playable line) 6 Bd3, Bb7; 7 0-0, Qc7 8 Qe2, Nf6 (8...d6 is safer.) 9 e5, b4 * (The critical point of the game. Black is challenging White to a duel, and I must accept. Therefore, I spent about thirty minutes looking for the correct response.) 10 efl, bc; 11 fg, B:g7; 12 bc, Q:c3; 13 Rb1! (The point. If now 13...B:g2, then 14 N:e6 or 14 Bb2, B:fl; 15 Qg4!) B:d4; 14 R:b7 (Now it is obvious that White has a big advantage. Black's king has nowhere to hide, and I have the two bishops. The moral of this game is that you must always be ready to play critical continuations.) Nc6; 15 Be4!, Qa5? (A mistake in a bad position) 16 B:c6, dc; 17 Qf3! (The decisive move) 0-0; 18 Bh6 Qd5; 19 Q:d5, cd; 20 B:f8, K:f8; 21 Rfb1 and White won on move 40.

* F-S after B9

Patrick Wolff was demolishing the opposition just as convincingly. He also stood at $5\frac{1}{2}$, and, as Fate would have it, we were to play in the last round.

We were both 7-1 going into the final game. The difference between first and second place in the U.S. Junior is gigantic: the winner is seeded into the next year's U.S. Closed and the World Junior, while second place is an all-expenses-paid trip to the U.S. Open.

The word "choke" is not often used in describing chess games, but this is exactly what happened to me. I played my worst game in several years. I saw very little during the game; my mind was not working normally. Patrick Wolff annotated this game for CHESS LIFE. His comments were based on our hurried post-mortem analysis and contained mistakes.

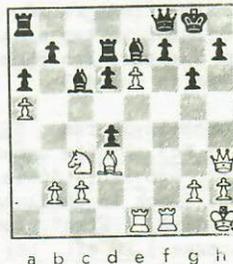

Wolff-Fishbein, RUY LOPEZ: 1 e4, e5; 2 Nf3, Nc6; 3 Bb5, a6; 4 Ba4, Nf6; 5 0-0, N:e4 6 d4, b5; 7 Bb3, d5; 8 de, Be6; 9 Be3, Nc5; 10 c3, N:b3 (An unpopular but quite playable plan. The general consensus is that the c5 square is too weak after White's b4 is unfounded.) 11 ab, Bg4 (11...Be7 is also interesting.) 12 Bf4, Be7; 13 h3, Bh5; 14 Nbd2, 0-0; 15 Qe2

Qc8; 16 Qe3, h6! (This move was viciously attacked by everyone, but it is not bad at all. Another idea is 16...Re8 and if 17 Bg5, then 17...Bd6! After 16...Re8, Black's position is quite comfortable, as it is in the game.) 17 b4, a5? (This is not right. 17...Rd8 is logical, with the threat of ...d4.) 18 ba, N:a5 (18...R:a5 is possible.) 19 Nd4! (Now White is better.) c5?? (It is truly amazing that, after thinking for over 40 minutes, I did not see an obvious way to avoid loss of a pawn - and neither did Wolff. The problem is that 19...Qb7 is impossible because of 20 Nf5 and 21 B:h6, and 19...b4 does not solve Black's problems, either - 20 e6 is too strong. But the simple 19...Bc5; 20 b4, Nc4; 21 N:c4, B:d4; 22 Q:d4, dc extricates Black. White still has the advantage, but Black should not lose.) 20 N:b5, Qc6; 21 Nd6, Bg6; 22 b4!, cb; 23 cb, Nc4; 24 Qc5, Q:c5 25 bc, Bd3; 26 R:a8, R:a8; 27 Rcl, g5; 28 N2:c4, dc; 29 Be3, Ra6

30 N:c4, f6; 31 Nb6, Bd8; 32 e6, Bf5; 33 e7, B:e7; 34 c6, Kf7; 35 c7, Bd6; 36 c8Q, B:c8 37 N:c8, Be5; 38 Nb6, Kg6; 39 Nd5, Rd6; 40 Ne7+, Kh7; 41 Nf5, Rd7; 42 g4 and I put an end to the agony. (1-0)

My loss in the most important game of my life to date was devastating. Though I tried not to think about it, it started a long depression. The World Open began in two days, and I lost the first two games - to Walter Browne and T. Southam, a 2300 Canadian player. I managed to recover, however, and scored 6 points in the following 7 games, including this victory from round 9.

Fishbein- IM S. Odendahl, SICILIAN: 1 e4, c5; 2 Nf3, e6; 3 d4, cd; 4 N:d4, Nf6; 5 Nc3 d6; 6 Be2, Be7; 7 O-O, Nc6; 8 Be3, O-O; 9 f4, a6; 10 a4, Qc7; 11 Khl, Rd8 (This move was recommended by Kasparov. However, he plays 11...Re8, and with such success that nobody plays this line against him any more.) 12 Bg1 Bd7; 13 Qd3 (An interesting, although not new, idea) N:d4 (13...Bf8 has also been played.) 14 B:d4, Bc6 (14...e5 is a mistake: 15 fe, de; 16 Qg3, Bd6; 17 Be3 leaves Black with an unpleasant choice among 17...Ne8; 18 Qf2! or 17...Be7; 18 Bh6!, Ne8 19 Nd5, Qd6; 20 Rad1! or 17...Kh8; 18 Nd5!, N:d5; 19 R:f7, Bf8 20 ed, Q:c2; 21 Bh6!) 15 a5! (A timely exploitation of the weakness of b6. White has the better game.) Rd7?! (Awkward. 15...Nd7 16 f5 gives White the initiative. 15...Re8 is a better move.) 16 Qg3, Qd8; 17 Bd3, Qf8 (A tight defense. 17...g6 seems better.) 18 Rael, Nh5! (Now the game becomes sharp. 18...d5; 19 ed, B:d5 20 Be5 and 18...Kh8 are alternatives. In each case, White has a more active position.) 19 Qh3, N:f4 (19...g6; 20 f5!) 20 R:f4, e5

* F-O after W23

21 Rff1, ed; 22 e5, g6; 23 e6 * Bg5? (A serious error. 23...f5!; 24 Ne2 (24 ed is unclear- Black has compensation for the exchange.) Rc7; 25 B:f5, Qg7! is the correct continuation. In this line, 25...gf is dubious because of 26 R:f5, Qg7; 27 Rf7, Q:g2+; 28 Q:g2, B:g2+ 29 K:g2, R:c2; 30 Khl with advantage.) 24 Ne4!, B:e4; 25 ed, Bc6; 26 Qg4, Be3; 27 c3, Rd8 28 cd, Bd2; 29 Re2, B:a5; 30 Qg5, Bb6; 31 Re7! (White is now winning.) R:d7; 32 R:d7, B:d7 33 Bc4, Be8; 34 Qf6 (Black is up by half a pawn (an exchange being worth 1½ pawns). However, his pieces are so passive that his position is hopeless. White now threatens 35 Bd5 and a possible Rcl.) Qg7; 35 Qe7, Qf8; 36 Q:b7, B:d4; 37 B:a6, Be5; 38 Bc4, d5; 39 B:d5, B:h2 40 R:f7 (40 K:h2 also wins. The text exchanges into a king and pawn ending.) B:f7; 41 Q:f7+ Q:f7; 42 B:f7+, K:f7; 43 K:h2, h5 (In endgames, intuition is very important. I knew that this ending would be winning, but, of course, looked at a couple of variations to confirm this. As always, a single tempo (or maybe even less) makes the difference. After 43...Ke6 44 Kg3, Kd5; 45 Kf4, h6; 46 b4, Kc4; 47 Ke5, K:b4; 48 Kf6, Kc4; 49 K:g6, Kd4; 50 K:h6 the Black king would like to jump across the e-file to f4.) 44 Kg3, g5; 45 Kf3, Ke6; 46 b4, Kd5 47 b5, Kc5; 48 Ke4, 1-0.

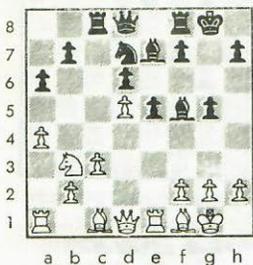

A victory in the last round over GM A. Lein would have put me in a tie for third. However, I lost that game and finished at 6-4, a respectable result given my terrible start. Still, my last-round jinx continued.

So, it was on to the U.S. Open. In preparing for the tournament, I was aware that it would be much weaker than the Opens in the past, mainly because many American grandmasters were busy as participants or seconds in the Interzonals. Therefore, I had in mind nothing less than first place. As it turned out, I had chances for first up until the end, but again failed to win the key games.

After winning the first five rounds, I played GM Walter Browne.

Fishbein-Browne, SICILIAN: 1 e4, c5; 2 Nf3, d6; 3 d4, cd; 4 N:d4, Nf6; 5 Nc3, a6; 6 Be2 e5; 7 Nb3, Be7; 8 O-O, O-O; 9 Re1? (An idea of Efim Geller, first played three years ago.

* F-B after B14

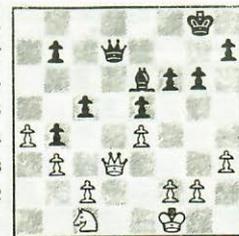

It is an illustration of how nearsighted chess theory is. For over 40 years, moves like 9 a4, 9f4, and 9 Be3 were "main lines." 9 Re1 is a new idea in the "original position" of the Be2 Najdorf. The plan is simple: 10 Bf1 will prevent ...d5 because the e5 pawn is under attack, and White will then play Nd5 and after the exchange will have a permanent queenside pawn majority. It is interesting to compare this line with the game Geller-Fischer in Curacao, 1962, which went 9 Be3, Qc7; 10 a4, Be6; 11 a5, Nbd7; 12 Nd5!, N:d5; 13 ed Bf5; 14 c4, and White has the advantage: the queenside pawns are marching and Black's plan of f7-f5 is too slow. For the rest of this game, see HOW TO BEAT BOBBY FISCHER by Edmar Mednis. Returning to the game, it must be pointed out that the plan of Re1, Bf1, and Nd5 is somewhat time-consuming and allows counterplay. Still, it is an interesting attempt at an opening advantage.) Be6; 10 Bf1, Nbd7

11 Nd5, N:d5; 12 ed, Bf5; 13 a4 (Probably best. On 13 c4, Black has 13...a5 and then ...a4 and ...Nc5 at some point. Now, of course, 13...a5 weakens b5.) Rc8; 14 c3, g5! * (Played after 45 minutes' thought, this is a vigorous attempt to prove that White's play is too slow. 14...Bg5 is more conventional.) 15 g4! (I thought here for a long time. It is a sharp and at the same time positional move. I am trying to make use of Black's weak light squares.) Bg6; 16 Bd3, Nb6? (A very unusual move in an unusual position. 16...f5 was correct, and now there are many interesting possibilities. When playing 15 g4, I had intended 17 Nd2, Qe8!; 18 gf, B:f5; 19 B:f5, R:f5; 20 Ne4. Another idea is 17 Bd2! or simply 17 gf. I feel that White's structure is a little better - the strong e4 square, better dark-squared bishop, and better queenside. However, Black has tactical chances based on White's weakened King position. In the game, however, Black sacrifices two tempi for a dubious idea.) 17 a5, Nd7 (17...Nc4 would have lost a pawn after 18 Ra4. Black's idea is 18...Nc5; 19 N:c5, R:c5 and the a-pawn is difficult to defend. However, this is nothing to worry about, and I should have simply played the prophylactic 18 h3, and if 18...Nc5 then 19 B:g6, hg; 20 Be3, N:b3; 21 Q:b3 with an advantage. Instead, I make a one-move blunder which hands the initiative over to Black.) 18 Qc2??, Nf6 (I did not see this move until about a second after hitting the clock.) 19 B:g6, fg; 20 Qd1 (A forced retreat. Black is now better.) Qd7; 21 h3, Rf7 (On 21...Qb5, White has 22 B:g5, N:d5 23 B:e7, N:e7; 24 Q:d6) 22 Qd3, Rcf8?! (A natural but apparently mistaken move. 22...h5! immediately is more energetic.) 23 Nd2!, h5; 24 Ne4, Nh7 (24...hg; 25 N:g5, gh; 26 Ne6! is fine for White.) 25 Re3, hg; 26 hg, Q:g4+; 27 Rg3, Rf3? (Now White has a better ending. Instead, 27...Qh5 would keep the chances about level.) 28 Q:f3, Q:f3; 29 R:f3, R:f3 (Browne offered a draw here, but I declined.) 30 Be3, Nf6; 31 N:f6+?! (31 N:g5, Rf5; 32 Rd1 seems to retain the advantage. We were both in time pressure.) B:f6; 32 Ra4, Bd8; 33 Rb4 (With about 7 minutes left to Browne's 5, I offered a draw which was accepted. White is still slightly better, but the position is drawn, for example 33...Rf7; 34 Bb6, B:b6; 35 R:b6 Rd7; 36 Kg2, e4!; 37 Kg3, Kg7; 38 c4, Kf6; 39 c5, Ke5; 40 c6, bc; 41 dc, Rc7; 42 R:a6, Kd5 43 b4, R:c6; 44 R:c6, K:c6; 45 Kg4, d5; 46 K:g5, d4; 47 Kf4, d3; 48 Ke3, g5; 49 f3, ef 50 K:d3. This looks like a long and complicated variation, but once the ideas of the position are understood, it only takes about a minute or two to go through. I leave it as an exercise for the reader to look at other possibilities in the position. Being able to get a good grasp of a position such as this is a sign of sound strategical understanding. I probably should have played on, and certainly would have if not for the mutual time pressure.) 1/2-1/2.

My games in the second half of the tournament went as follows: draws against GMs Albur and Bisguier, IM Kopec (last round), and USCF master Rolletschek, and victories over FMs Edelman and Weeramantry. All this was enough for a +7 =5 score and a second place tie. I conclude with a game that is interesting mainly for psychological reasons. It shows the danger of overoptimistic play.

Fishbein-Weeramantry, PIRC: 1 e4, d6; 2 d4, g6; 3 Nf3, Bg7; 4 Nc3 Nf6; 5 h3, 0-0; 6 Be3 (A positional system. It leads to a quiet but complex game.) c6; 7 a4, a5; 8 Be2, Qc7; 9 0-0, e5; 10 de, de 11 Bc4, Nh5; 12 Qd2 (Played after long thought. It is a rather subtle move, inviting 12...Rd8; 13 Qc1 with the threat of 14 Ng5. The weird 12 Qc1 immediately is probably better.) Nf4! 13 Rfd1 (Unfortunately White has nothing after 13 Bc5, Rd8; 14 Qe3, Nd7.) Be6 (So Black has equalized. Now 14 B:e6, N:e6 is objectively best and would lead to a level position. Instead, I play an asymmetrical move.) 14 B:f4 (I am giving up a bishop for a knight, or, as Bobby Fischer would say, a half-point advantage. However, Black will have only an optically better position, and it is possible for him to evaluate it incorrectly. Therefore, although 14 B:f4 is objectively not the best move, psychologically it is.) B:c4; 15 Bh6, B:h6 16 Q:h6, f6; 17 b3, Be6; 18 Qe3, Na6; 19 Ne1, Rfd8; 20 Nd3, Nb4 (Black thinks he is continuing to gain space, but instead this move created a potential weakness - exactly what I wanted) 21 N:b4, ab; 22 Ne2, R:d1+; 23 R:d1, Rd8; 24 Rd3 (The position is still equal, but I began to feel the tide turning in my favor.) R:d3; 25 Q:d3, Qd7 (Black feels that the bishop is better than the knight in this position, but that is not true.) 26 Nc1, c5 27 Kf1 * Q:d3+? THE GERASH MEMORIAL

by Steve Anderson

45 players, which may be a large turnout by today's standards, showed up to do battle in three sections at the 1987 Benjamin Gerash Memorial Tournament, held in honor of Walter Gerash's father. The location, the V.F.W. Hall at 9th & Speer in Denver, was outstanding with good playing conditions and a restaurant, bar, and televised football on site. In addition to cash and rating points, players competed for three trophies in each section, engraved pewter drinking steins supplied by tournament co-sponsor Walter Gerash.

The Reserve Section had a tie for 1st between George Fletcher and Michael Engles when George, a rook ahead, inadvertently stalemated Michael in the last round. George did take the 1st place trophy on tiebreaks. Robert Laventure won the Premier Section outright by drawing Steve Anderson in the final round. He played aggressively and left Anderson with no choice but to accept the draw.

In the Open Section Mike Shedd (who's been playing extremely well at the D.C.C. lately) upset Ron Nichols and John Siddeek but lost his last round game to Robert Karnisky.

Steiner also annotated this instructive endgame: Luevanos- Toy

a b c d e f g h

(from position at left): To win this game Black must infiltrate White's position in such a way that he queens before White. We begin with the obvious moves 39...Ke4; 40 Kg4, Kd3; 41 Kg5 (This is the crucial point. In fact, it is this position which makes this endgame so tricky. The winning line involves triangulation in order to get the opposition. Required is 41...Ke3! forcing 42 Kg4 (White can't afford the pawn trade with his king on the outside; Black will feast on the White pawns with an easy win.), Ke4!, the point. Notice how the position is the same as after 41 Kg4. The only difference is that White has to move -- i. e., Black has the opposition No matter what happens Black wins. There are two choices here:

(A) 43 Kg5, Kf3 forcing pawns off: 44 f5 (best) gf; 45 K:f5, Ke3
 46 Ke5, Kd3 and Black wins easily. Or (B) 43 Kg3, Kd3 and now Black will win the race:
 44 Kg4, K:c3; 45 Kg5, d4; 46 K:g6, d3; 47 f5, d2; 48 f6, d1q; 49 f7 and now Black can simply sac the queen for the pawn and win on the queenside.)

However, the key 41...Ke3! was never played. The text move was 41...K:c3? This starts a queening race without the added tempo as in the line above. Thus the pawns queen at the same time, resulting in a draw: 42 Kg6, d4; 43 f5, d3; 44 f6, d2; 45 f7, d1q; 46 f8q, Qg4+ 47 Kh7, Qh4+; 48 Kg6, Qg4+; 49 K-g7. Black can't force a queen trade and White can find plenty of checks.

Moral: Don't blindly race to promote pawns. There may be better moves.
