DEADLINE FOR NEXT ISSUE: JUNE 1

IN MEMORIAM: DON C. THOMPSON

by Vance Aandahl

Colorado chess suffered a sad loss when Don C. Thompson died on December 15 after a two-year battle with melanoma. Don was one of the most active players on the Colorado Chess Tour, and many of you will remember him not only for his personal qualities, his shy friendliness, his politeness and modesty, and the genuine respect he always felt for his opponents, but also for his qualities as a player, his love for the esthetics of chess, his sense of awe at her complexities, his fighting spirit and will to win, his focused concentration, and the patience and tenacity he always displayed when confronted with a difficult position.

What many of you may not know is that Don was also a talented journalist, fiction writer, essayist, and teacher who earned an international reputation for his scholarly knowledge of science fiction and his lifelong devotion to the recognition of SF as a respectable and important branch of literature. Don grew up reading SF in the 1930's and 1940's, wrote and sold stories to the top SF magazines during the 1950's, then dedicated himself to promoting SF during the 1960's, 1970's, and 1980's. One highlight of Don's career came in 1981, when he served as the chief organizer of the World Science Fiction Convention. During his last six months Don attended and participated in three SF conventions, continued to write his SF book review column for the Denver Post, continued to serve as an officer in the Denver Area Science Fiction Association, and continued to write for, edit, and publish his personal magazines Rim Runner and Don-o-Saur, the last issues of which feature candid, insightful essays on the subject of his impending death -- a prospect Don didn't like but nonetheless accepted with nary a trace of resentment or remorse.

Don remained active in chess too during his last few months. At the Al Wallace Memorial held on November 3 and 4, he scored 2 - 2 even though three of his opponents were significantly higher rated, thus giving his own rating a nice boost in his final USCF tournament. When his son Bruce visited him for Thanksgiving, they spent much of their time together hunched over a chessboard. And as the daylight hours diminished, Don and I found ourselves immersed in middlegame complications in a pair of postal games; I received his last set of moves on December 7, just eight days before he died.

Those two games must remain forever unfinished, but during the two decades we worked together in the Metropolitan State College English Department, Don and I completed many others, some during lunch, some by phone, some by campus mail. Here is one of Don's victories in a game played quickly and concluded with an exciting combination:

Boulder Open: 110 rateds + 20 unrateds

- Garth Courtois Jr.

The 14th Annual Boulder Open, held January 12th and 13th, was a success in both quality and quantity. The Clarion is one of the nicest sites in Boulder and the tournament went smoothly, and the tournament was well attended.

Although based on 90 rateds, 110 rated players showed, plus another 20 unrated players. The extras were no accident. 200 fliers were sent to UCSF members who were not CSCA members. In addition to bringing back some inactive players, there were several people, already USCF members, who decided to play in a tournament for the first time.

The "Great Telephone Registration Experiment" was a great success. Over one hundred of the 130 players mailed or telephoned prior to the tournament. As a result, USCF and CSCA memberships were looked up in advance, and new registrations during the two hours prior to the first round was kept to a minimum. An important side benefit, not always obvious, is that new players were given a better explanation of membership options and choosing which section to play in; the time to do this is limited in the final registration rush. I want to thank those who registered in advance for helping the tournament get off on the right foot.

A curious pattern to the "extra" players. The middle "Reserve" section was the only section to have more rated players than the "based on" number. There were so many in that section that the prize fund was almost doubled. Existing prizes were beefed up and the new prizes were experimentally designated, "Top 3/4", halfway between the "Top Half" and "First Place" prizes. This worked out well because they were won by players with three out of four points who would otherwise have not received a prize.

Most of the unrated players entered the Amateur section. The 45-player section was so large that 4 rounds did not produce a clear winner. Several unrated players turned in high scores and we can look forward to seeing these players in future Reserve sections, with ratings in the high 1600s.

I'd like to thank Robert Anderson for returning his second check (I wrote him two checks for the same prize), and David Hufnagel, who donated his prize to Boulder Scholastic Chess.

Association of College Unions (ACUI) Region XIII Chess Tournament

by Peter F. Dettelis, Officer-In-Charge USAF Academy Chess Team

On February 28 - March 3, 1991, the college Region XIII recreation tournament was held at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, Utah. ACUI Region XIII encompasses five states: Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming, and Colorado. Many recreational tournaments are held, including chess. This year's chess tournament entrants featured 18 players from 7 schools, representing four states. The following schools participated: Colorado School of Mines, New Mexico State University, University of Arizona, University of Utah, USAF Academy, Weber State University, And Western New Mexico State University. There were three players rated over 2000. Most players were rated members of the USCF. A five round Swiss was played, and competition was for individual as well as teams of two players. Six schools featured teams of two players. Competition was intense, and scores were all very close. It should also be noted that this tournament was a gentlemen's event -- a smooth running, problem free event.

In the individual competition, Larry Adamson (2295) from the University of Arizona took first place with a perfect score of 5 points. Second place went to Gabriel Lither (2029) from the University of Utah with 4 points. The Best Unrated was Jean Pradelle (UNR) from the Colorado School of Mines. In the team competition, the University of Utah took first with 8 points out of a possible 10. Team members Gabriel Lither (2029) scored 4 points, Suvir Singh (2050) scored 4 points, and Richard Carapezza (1617) scored 2 points. Second place went to the Air Force Academy with 6 points. Team members Shawn Ferguson (1088) scored 3 points, Gary DeYoung (1524) scored 3 points, Rodney Todd (1560) scored 3 points, Michael Dunn (1422) scored 3 points, Darryl Terrell (1829) scored 3 points, and Kirk Rasmussen (1607) scored 2 points. The cadets seemed to play a lot better than their ratings indicated. Considering they were without their seniors, who were at a mandatory 100th's night celebration, a second place finish with young players wasn't bad.

It seems as though college chess is on the rise in our area, and I hope it continues with strong college chess clubs. From the quality of players, it appears that college chess does exist at a competitive level, and more events like this are needed to give players the opportunity to play. The University of Utah is organizing a competitive college chess league with games played over a computer modem. Hopefully, more schools will be able to field a team of two players at next year's event at Arizona State University.

COLORADO SPRINGS OPEN

Out of the 66 players in the Colorado Springs Open March 2-3, no fewer than nine tied for first place with scores of 4-1. Leading the field, in tiebreak order, were Rob Karnisky, Dan Avery, Eddie Sanders of Texas, Joe Eversole, Matt Kahle, Daoud Zupa, Gary Bagstad, Vance Aandahl, and Ron Smits. A full report will be in the next INFORMANT.

MATTERS PRESIDENTIAL

by Richard Buchanan

At this moment Colorado chess looks very healthy. Scholastic events have had great turnouts, and tournaments in Boulder, Loveland, Colorado Springs, and Denver have all been most successful. New events are popping up, and we are planning lots of summer activities.

PEOPLE'S FAIR

One thing we have to start planning for is our participation in the Territory Days in Colorado Springs and the People's Fair in Denver. We need folks to play chess with the public and help us promote the game. If you are interested, please contact Rodney Cruz or me.

COLORADO OPEN

This year's Colorado Open has been named the Don Thompson Memorial (Colorado Open) to commemorate a good friend. If clubs would be interested in sponsoring this event (a 3-day Labor Day Weekend tournament including the state championship and the annual CSCA membership meeting), they need to submit a bid to me by May 1. The bid should include a description of the site, a proposed prize fund and financial statement, and other relevant information.

COLORADO TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP

This tournament faded out three or four years ago after a particularly poor turnout - a pity, I think, because team events are a lot of fun. I would like to see this tournament started up again. If any club would like to hold it, they should check with Tony Wilson to find an available date and submit a bid.

BY-LAWS

Elsewhere in this issue you will find a copy of the CSCA By-Laws. I have a number of amendments I would like to submit for your consideration (and votes) at the membership meeting at the next Colorado Open. Many of these are just housekeeping amendments to keep things consistent with amendments passed last year. A few others adapt the By-laws to fit current CSCA policy, and others attempt to solve a problem or two. If anyone else has amendments to propose, they need to be submitted in writing in time for the July INFORMANT.

Proposed By-Laws Amendments

1. Article III Section 1 (Membership Dues): Delete the sentence "Any commission retained by the Association on any membership in the United States Chess Federation shall be regarded as dues paid to the Association by the person to whom the Membership is issued." and replace it with "The Board of Directors shall have the authority to set up special memberships (e.g., one-tournament memberships, 6-month promotional memberships, etc.) at appropriate prices."
2. Article IV, Section 4: Add at the end the sentence "This notice may be given through a regular CSCA publication."
3. Article V, Section 1: Change "...a Secretary/Treasurer..." to "...a Secretary, a Treasurer,...".
4. Article V. Section 3: Delete this section, which requires that the annual election of officers be by secret ballot.
5. Article VII: Change the beginning of the first sentence to "The President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, Junior Representative, one Member at Large, and one Member at Large elected by the previous year's Board shall constitute the Board of Directors, which..."

6. Article VII: Delete the material after the sentence "Proxy votes are not allowed." and designate this paragraph as Section 1. Add the sentence: "Four Board members shall constitute a quorum for conducting business."

7. Add Article VII, Section 2: "Any officer elected or appointed may be removed from office for cause. This can be done by election at a special membership meeting, or by a vote of the Board under the following conditions:

1) The officer under impeachment shall be notified of the meeting at which the vote will be taken. Every reasonable effort should be made to have this meeting at a time and place such that this officer can attend. He or she shall have all rights of due process.

2) A motion to remove an officer must pass by a majority of at least 80% of those voting, excluding the officer under impeachment."

8. Add Article VII, Section 3: "If a vacancy should occur on the Board of Directors, the remaining members of the Board are empowered to appoint a member to fill the vacancy for the balance of the term."

FROM THE SECRETARY

After the St. Patrick's Day Open, there are 241 people with active, current CSCA memberships, plus a few suspicious characters whose exact names, addresses, or expiration dates are in question. Please look at your label and take action to avoid losing your subscription to your state chess magazine.

Your membership expiration date appears in the top left corner of the mailing label. Next, there is "OK" if your membership is current, five asterisks if it is not, or "Temp" if you recently paid a tournament membership fee (you people get one Informant only). To help distinguish between members with similar names, we are adding USCF ID numbers whenever we know them.

Please send corrections to the secretary. If you think your expiration date is in error, please explain when you paid your dues and to whom.

Our policy is to send one Informant after the membership expires. If your label shows five asterisks, this is the last Informant you will receive unless you renew your membership. Send dues to the Treasurer (see page 2). Better yet, attend one of the many tournaments coming up and pay there. If your membership will expire within a month or two, pay early - we'll always extend your membership by a full year.

Tony Wilson

4. Books: The Association shall keep correct and complete books and records of account, and shall keep minutes of the proceedings of its Members, Board of Directors, and Committees having any of the authority of the Board of Directors, and shall keep at its registered office or principal office in this State a record of the names and addresses of the Members entitled to vote. All books and records of the Association may be inspected by any Member or his agent or attorney, for any proper purpose at any reasonable time.

Article VI. DUTIES OF OFFICERS

1. President: The President shall call and preside at all meetings of the Membership, represent the Association officially on all occasions, report annually to the Membership, appoint such additional Officers and Committees as may advance Association purposes, including the representatives of the Association in all affairs of the United States Chess Federation.

2. Vice-President: The Vice-President shall assist the President and carry out assignments received from him. He shall execute the duties of the President when the President is unable to serve.

3. Secretary/Treasurer: The Secretary/Treasurer shall: (1) Keep minutes of all meetings of the Membership, (2) act as custodian of the By-Laws and such documents as the President may entrust to him, (3) Keep records of all funds collected and disbursed by the Association, (4) Make a financial report at the annual meeting, and (5) Carry out all duties as prescribed by these By-Laws and such other duties as the President may assign. He shall preside at any meeting of the Membership if the President and Vice-President are unable to attend.

Article VII. BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The President, Vice-President, Secretary/Treasurer, Junior Member, Immediate Past President, Immediate Past Secretary/Treasurer, and one member to be appointed for one year term by a majority vote of the Board of Directors immediately before the annual meeting, shall constitute the Board of Directors, which shall as Officers and Board Members, between meetings of the membership, execute all Association business and affairs, including contracts. The President of the Association shall be the Chairman of the Board of Directors. A decision of the Board of Directors shall require the affirmative vote in person, by mail, or by telephone, of a majority of the Board of Directors.

Proxy votes are not allowed. Any officers elected or appointed may be removed by the persons authorized to elect or appoint said Officers, whenever, in their judgment, the best interests of the Association are served. If a vacancy should occur on the Board of Directors, the remaining Members of the Board are empowered to appoint a Member to fill the vacancy for the balance of the term.

Article VIII. PROCEDURE

Robert's Rules of Order Revised shall be used at all meetings of the Membership.

Article IX. AMENDMENT

These By-Laws may be amended by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the Members voting at any meeting of the Membership, provided that advance notice, including the purport of the amendment has been sent to each Member.

Article X. COMPENSATION

No Officer, Director, or Member shall receive any compensation or other benefits from the Association except for reimbursement of reasonable expenses.

require Membership in good standing in the Association.

3. Suspension and Expulsion: The Board of Directors has the power to suspend or expel any Member for causing or conducting a hearing. The Member has the right to attend the hearing and to call witnesses in his behalf. If the Member is aggrieved by the action of the Board the Member has the right to submit a written appeal to the Board of Directors within (10) days of the decision. The appeal will be considered at the next regular meeting or special meeting called for that purpose, by the assembled Membership.

Article IV. MEETINGS

1. Annual Meetings: The President shall call an annual meeting of the Membership, held in conjunction with the Colorado Open Tournament, for the purposes of hearing reports, electing and installing Officers, and conducting other Association business.

2. Special Meetings: The President shall call special meetings of the Membership at such times as may be expedient for the purpose of considering any Association business. Upon petition of twenty (20) Members of the Association, the President shall call a special meeting of the Membership for the reason stated on the petition, and the meeting shall be only for discussion of the petitioned reasons.

3. Quorum: Ten Members present in person shall constitute a quorum at any meeting of the Membership.

4. Notice: The Secretary shall mail to each Member advance notice of each special meeting. The notice shall include an agenda. Business transacted at special meetings will be limited to only those items noted on the notice for that meeting.

Article V.

1. Officers: At each annual meeting the Members shall elect a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary/Treasurer, and a Junior Member (under 21 years of age at date of election). All officers other than the Junior Member must be at least 21 years of age at date of election.

2. Terms: The term of each officer shall begin with the annual meeting at which elected, and continue until the next annual meeting, and thereafter until a successor is elected.

3. Election: The election shall be by secret ballot.

Article I. NAME

The name of the organization is the Colorado State Chess Association, Inc., hereinafter referred to as the Association.

Article II. PURPOSE

The purpose of the Association shall be to broaden and develop chess as a significant element of cultural art in Colorado. The Association shall cooperate with chess clubs, schools, and other groups and institutions throughout Colorado in teaching chess, and conducting tournaments. The Association shall be affiliated with the United States Chess Federation and shall select the official Colorado representatives in all affairs of the United States Chess Federation. The Association is pledged to (A) operate exclusively for educational purposes; (B) that no part of its contributions, dues or net income shall inure to the benefit of any individual, except the trophies or prizes awarded in the course of its educational and promotional program shall not be so construed; and (C) that the Association is not operated for profit, and that neither principal nor income of any of its funds may be used in any attempt to influence legislation.

Article III. MEMBERSHIP

Any person or corporation may become a Member on application to the Board of Directors, which is empowered to accept member applications by a majority vote. Persons or corporations desiring to become a Member must demonstrate a sincere interest in chess and in furthering the aims of the Association. All Members must agree to abide by the Articles of Incorporation, By-Laws and other rules and regulations adopted by the Association.

1. Membership Dues: Association Dues shall be $12.00 for one year. Juniors (under 21 years of age at date of expiration of membership) and Seniors (over age 65) need pay only half of this amount. Any commission retained by the Association on any Membership in the United States Chess Federation shall be regarded as dues paid to the Association by the person to whom the Membership is issued.

2. Rights and Privileges: Each Member shall be entitled to participate and vote in all meetings of the Membership. Voting may be in person or by mail, but not by proxy. Also, Members are entitled to participate in Association sponsored tournaments except as otherwise provided in these By-Laws. Participation in United States Chess Federation rated tournaments, which are sponsored by the Association, shall require Membership in good standing in both the United States Chess Federation and the Association. In addition, participation in any tournament or event sponsored by the Association shall

CSCA BOARD MEETING

The CSCA Board of Directors met in Castle Rock on February 9. The following business was transacted:

1. Ron Smits having resigned as President of the Board of Directors, Vice President Richard Buchanan took over as President.
2. Dwayne Gregory has resigned as Secretary of the Board. Tony Wilson was appointed to fulfill the remainder of his term.
3. Ron Smits' resigning from the Board created a vacancy. Susan Stanley was appointed to the Board and also appointed Scholastic Chairman.
4. Garth Courtois was appointed Vice President of the Board of Directors.
5. The Informant will continue to be edited by Buck; the President's Newsletter will be published only when there is a specific need.
6. CSCA mailing lists and mailing labels may be sold to CSCA affiliates at reasonable cost.
7. The CSCA has a balance of $3268.63, including about $1300 in the Scholastics Fund.
8. The Board voted to fully fund the League Awards dinner up to $150.
9. The Board approved $85 for activities of the prison committee (Chris Hendrikson).
10. The 1991 Colorado Open will be named the Don Thompson Memorial (Colorado Open). Clubs wishing to sponsor this tournament should submit their bids by May 1.
11. The Board allocated $200 for the People's Fair and $50 for Territory days.
12. The Board did not pass a proposal to increase one-time Tournament dues to $4. One Informant will be mailed to players paying this fee.
13. Several amendments to the By-Laws were proposed. These will be published in the June Informant and voted on at the September Membership meeting.

KRISELER'S LAST KORNER

Adios Amigos. By the time you read this I'll have been gone from Colorado for some time. I've had many interesting times in Colorado chess while here. With any luck, I won't be sending back any 50 page articles about ancient chess history and prove how wacko I am.

After being here five years, chess in the state has made some big changes. One thing that hasn't changed is chess players are still strange people and that will never change.

When first arriving to the state, I discovered that players in the state were underrated and the organizers were overrated. Calling the chess powers in Colorado to get information, I quickly learned that, unless you were a high ranking officer in an established chess club, you weren't supposed to be an organizer. With that info came the coup at the Lakewood CC. The LCC is proof of the transient nature of chess. Just a few years ago it was the top club in the state and now it doesn't exist.

Back in 86/87, we won the Denver Chess League and the funny thing was, Tim Holman was our team captain and 1st board. He always lost early and when he would leave, we would be losing on the other three boards. He was always shocked when we told him we won the match. The only match we lost was the one where he won.

The LCC's new format was action chess and the club was designed with the average player in mind. When all other clubs were losing members, we were expanding rapidly. Most of the people we got were brand new or had been away from the game for a long time. It was proof that Action Chess was a great promoting tool.

In the year that followed, chess in the state experienced a bad depression. Nobody in the state was promoting chess and CSCA board was too busy fighting with each other to get anything done. The 88 Peoples Fair booth was run as a club activity because CSCA didn't want to get involved. In a letter to the Informant, I attacked almost every top organizer in the state and many of the clubs. At that time, every tournament was being held to make as much money as possible from each tournament. You could pay a $20 EF and $6 went to your prize fund and the rest to the organizing club. During this time we lost many active TDs because the low attendance meant that they couldn't make a killing on TD fees. For a 5 month period, no tournament had fifty players and most couldn't get forty. CSCA at that point was useless, so I stopped holding CSCA events. Ran a lot of tournaments, but none as CSCA events.

The 88 membership meeting was very interesting. The madman of Colorado chess ran for President. I think I had 2 bottles of soda before the meeting. So it was no surprise that I was in the bathroom when I was nominated. Pictures I saw afterward showed that while I was standing and speaking, there was a noticeable wet spot on my light brown pants. I won election without anybody voting for me. I think everybody that wrote my name was voting against my opponent.

The first board meeting was funny because the other board members were waiting to find out what the wacko Pres had dreamed up. At the end of the meeting, which mostly consisted of brain storming for ideas to promote chess in the state and increase membership, Steve Anderson (a great Sec/Tres!) I think was still waiting for my outrageous ideas to be presented. He asked me if the board had covered the things I had hoped to achieve as President. My deadpan reply was, "I don't know, I just ran for the free membership." The board believed me. For my first Pres Newsletter, I needed a title for my editorial section. In the first draft, it was entitled 'Ramblings of a Madman'. Liz Wood made me change it.

As the most active organizer and player in the state, there are many things I'll remember. Many players and organizers had some strange quirks. In the final round of one tournament, my win from my usual bad position really ticked my opponent. We were sitting by a wall playing with my wooden pieces. With one movement, he stopped the clock and brought his hand back to sweep my pieces into the wall. His hand reached the edge of the board and immediately stopped when he saw that my hand was going to sweep the teeth from his face.

My most memorable game was against a player that decided to distract me as much as he could. He had a throat problem that only affected him when my clock was ticking. Every five seconds, ahum, ahum, ahum. That didn't work, so he pulled out an apple. Crunch, Crunch, Crunch. He only ate it on my move. When he finished his apple, I pulled out my apple, and ate it on his move and did it loudly. He then pulled out a Denver Post. He read it wide open and he'd shake it to straighten the pages. I went into my bag of tricks and the game itself proved to be secondary. The game was decided when he got in horrible time pressure and stopped keeping score on move twenty. I put my scorebook on my lap and on move 48 his flag fell and he asked if he had made time control. He had dropped enough material between move 40 and 48 so it didn't matter. I told him he had made it and he resigned.

The 1990 Boulder Open had many memorable moments. I wrote a great article on that tournament, but Buck couldn't print it. The highlight of the tournament was when Ron Smits, who had been active in the state for several years, was accused of being an expert playing under an assumed name in the reserve section. After a score of players, including Buck and myself, vouched for Ron, the TD's decision was that Ron would receive any money he won after USCF was allowed to run an investigation. After another score of players vouched for Ron, the TD's decision was that Ron would get his money immediately, but USCF would still be notified. Poor Ron had to stand there and listen to everybody tell the TD how bad a player he really was.

As the contact person for chess in the state, I received many strange phone calls. Some calls were late at night about games in bars. I think someone wasn't happy about my first election and starting the day after, I began to get obscene phone calls. Got my answering machine shortly after. The best message I got was, "Mark, what's Keith Oxman's first name." The next embarrassed message was, "That message was stupid, but I'm trying to look up Keith's phone number and I don't know what his first name is."

The 89 Peoples Fair proved that chess can be hazardous to your health. We were playing under a metal framed canopy when a major thunderstorm came along. Debra Scott and I were both playing when lightning hit 20 yards away. My opponent's flag fell while he was on the ground. The previous weekend, I was closing the booth when a massive rainstorm with high winds hit. The canopy wasn't much use as the rain was coming horizontally. Hypothermia is no fun.

Scholastics was interesting. Had to make rulings on whose move it was and where each player claimed checkmate. At one tournament, all the sections were in one area and since my section was the Elementary, my chief task was to keep the kids quiet. Stiff threats seemed to work best. Later in the day, one of my fellow TDs informed me that there were a bunch of elementary players in the skittles area talking about how much their TD hated kids. Probably the most satisfying experience in scholastics was walking in just as the K-3 section trophies were awarded. We had a bunch of old US Class shirts that we brought to the tournament. All of the kids that hadn't gotten trophies had their heads down. After announcing that all the prizes hadn't been awarded, I awarded shirts to those kids that hadn't gotten trophies. The looks on their faces is what scholastics is all about.

Scholastics has been ignored in the state. There has never been any recognition for the organizers. Training the program directors, so that they can do more, has been nonexistent. In a way, my involvement with scholastic chess has been to pay back those people that helped me when I was a scholastic player. As CSCA Pres., a lot of my efforts were toward this year. Getting donations for scholastics was one of my biggest goals and was successful. Hopefully one of the prevailing opinions I've changed is the one that says, Scholastics should make money. The one thing I've informed my replacement is that scholastics should break even or lose a little bit, but never ever show a profit. People who make money from kids, who play because they love to play, should be Savings and Loan officers. One thing to remember is that the scholastic money is private donations that were designated to help scholastics. If the money gets spent on scholastics then it's being used for the purpose it was donated for.

All my leaving does is move up the timetable on Colorado's scholastic program. My goals this year were to set up a league and to show program organizers that they didn't need outside help. The league response is good and there are programs out there that are getting ready for next year's league. With the publicity this year, the league could double next year. Imagine on a single night, there could be 150 kids playing in organized competition.

The biggest thing though is to turn scholastics over to the program directors and let them run it. Why should we have non-scholastic people making decisions. At next years League meeting, they should be the ones to decide who their Scholastic Chairman and League Chairman are going to be. Perhaps they will form a board like CSCA. They should be the ones holding scholastic tournaments to raise funds for their programs. In the past, there have been too many outsiders involved for personal profit. Until I became Scholastic Chairman there was never a scholastic person in the position. Unless you've built a program, scraped for money, and suffered when your 1st board hangs a queen in a critical match, you can not call yourself a scholastic person.

As I leave Colorado, I leave behind a design to turn Colorado into a strong scholastics state. What I've done this year can't be judged for several years and only then if CSCA has a hands off policy. Perhaps in the future, Colorado will be mentioned in the same sentences with Utah, Arizona, and Nebraska.

Chess Dreams and Nightmares

by GM Yasser Seirawan

On the eve of a weekend Swiss, many players go to sleep with dreams of upsetting a master. They imagine themselves as Paul Morphy, producing one brilliant move after another, inspiring their friends to carry them away down the street on a sea of shoulders.

On the other side of town, the master (me) sleeps less easy.

Such was the situation February 17, 1978. I had excellent chances to make the 1978 US Olympiad Team. A careful calculation of the nation's top rated players revealed that by winning 12 more rating points, I'd clinch a berth on the team. My rating was at such heights that a loss or even a draw would wash away my dreams.

1.e4 g6 2.d4 d6 3.c4 e5 4.Be3 Nc6 5.Ne2 Bg7 6.Nbc3 Nh6! 7.f3 f5! 8.Qd2

The theory of the time was that 8.d5 Ne7 was best—and forced.

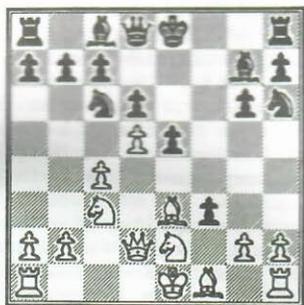

8...fxe4

The supposed refutation of 8.Qd2. If White recaptures by 9.fxe4, then exd4 10.Nxd4 Ng4; or 9.Nxe4 Nf5 10.Bg5 Qd7 11.Nf6+ Bxf6 12.Bxf6 O-O and the d4 square is soon occupied by a Black Knight. The final cute point is that 9.Bg5—preparing Bg5xh6—runs into 9...e3!, with good play for Black. My opponent, oblivious to the dictates of theory, hit me with a nasty surprise.

Pow! So much for theory. So far as I can tell, no book has caught up with Mr. Darby's innovation these dozen years later. Believing that my opponent had fallen for my trap, I did a quick survey of the situation and rejected 9...Nd4? 10.Nxd4 exd4 11.Bxd4 Bxd4 12.Qxd4 O-O 13.Nxe4, when White is a pawn up and has a great game! Just plain bad is 9...Nb8?

10.Nxe4 Nf5 11.Bg5! Qd7 12.g4! and Black is soon busted. Noting these alternatives were all lousy, I recalled a saying from an old teacher, "When in doubt, take a pawn!" I promptly played 9...ex3?

Here my opponent went into a thirty-minute huddle. That allowed me to stretch my legs and consider the position. The more I looked, the deeper became my concern. With all the romance of a cold shower, it suddenly hit me that I was dead lost. Visions of Olympic stardom disappeared with the first cold shivers. No matter how I tossed and turned the pieces in my mind, there was no escaping the main line: (Stop! Set the position up on a board and find the win. Take your time, the win is complicated!) The victory is as cold as ice after 10.dxc6!! fxe2 11.Bg5! Bf6 12.Bxf6 Qxf6 13.Qxh6! exf1=Q+ 14.Rxf1 Bf5 15.cxb7 Rb8 16.g4 Rxb7 17.Rxf5! and Black, a piece down, can confidently give up.

Being so worried about the above line, I hadn't even considered this move. It also wins! Both Black Knights are now under attack.

10...Nd4 11.Bg5

White wants to emerge dry from the waters. After the simple 11.Bxh6 O-O (or 11...Bxh6 12.Qxh6 Nc2+ 13.Kd2 Nxa1 14.Bd3 and White wins.) 12.Bxg7 Kxg7 13.O-O-O Bg4 14.Re1, White will soon consolidate his extra material and win. With the text, White first tries to displace Black's Queen.

11...Qxg5!! 12.Qxg5

With the capture of my Queen, a silent message seeped through the playing hall. Within seconds (the speed of osmosis) the forty players knew I had just lost my Queen and was now busted. Me? I was happier than a clam! I confidently played and left my opponent to deal with the maddening crowd.

13.Nge4

Having to deal with all the smiles and back-patting of the forty had left my opponent with a sick feeling. For while he was awash in good wishes, poor Mr Darby had to analyze lines such as: 13.Qd2? Bh6 14.Qd3 (14.Qd1? f2 mate!) 14...f2+ 15.Kd1 Ne3+ 16.Kc1 Nxf1+ 17.Kb1 Nd2+ 18.Kc1 f1=Q+ 19.Nxf1 Nxf1+ 20.Kb1? Nd2+ 21.Kc1 Nxc4+ 22.Kb1 Bf5 23.Ne4 Nd2+ 24.Kc1 Nxe4+ 25.Kb1 Nd2+ 26.Kc1 Bxd3—one of the most depressing windmills ever to befall a class player. Other alternatives considered by White included 13.Qh4? Bf6; 13.Bd3 Bh6 14.Bxg6+ hxg6 15.Qxg6+ Ke7 16.O-O Be3+ 17.Kh1 Rxh2 Checkmate! The well-wishers had become annoying!

13...Nc2+ 14.Kd1 Nce3+ 15.Ke1 Bh6 16.Qh4 fxg2 17.Nf6+ Nxf6 0-1

My opponent now resigned. He was immediately swamped with congratulations.

Post Scriptum. I was successful in the tournament and in my next outings. I achieved the dozen rating points needed to make the Olympic team. At precisely this moment (in fact, following the celebration party), the USCF computer sank into the briny deep. The manufacturer had gone bankrupt. All USCF ratings remained frozen for months. My invitation never arrived. Truly, even sweet dreams can turn to nightmares! ■

King's Indian Defense
Boulder Open, 1991

Many of us prepare for openings in much the same way. "I'll just read the appropriate book(s)," we say - and leave it at that - never realizing that merely looking at a book is hardly any better than not preparing at all. The real key to emerging from the opening with a promising game, whether White or Black, is not only to use books - but to understand the variations you go into well. In this game, both sides do so - however, Black surprises with the first new move, to which White does not properly respond - and therefore changes the game irrevocably.

1.d4 Nf6 2.Nf3 g6 3.c4 Bg7 4.g3

Now that Black has chosen the King's Indian complex, White has many choices. By playing 2.Nf3 he excluded himself from choosing the Saemisch and Four Pawns variations; however, if he wanted to be cagy, White could still delay the choice with 4.Nc3.

4...O-O 5.Bg2 d6

Here Black had the option of the semi-Grunfeld 5...d5; he instead chooses the main-line King's Indian.

6.O-O Nc6

In the Fianchetto variations of the King's Indian, this is the crossroads. Black decides for the Panno Variation here; he could also have played the classical 6...Nbd7 7.Nc3 e5, as in, for example, Gutman-Martin, Hastings 1985: 8.e4 exd4 9.Nxd4 Re8 (The orthodox choice is 8...c6 and on 9.h3, to play either ...exd4, Qb6, Qa5, or Re8. Black could transpose to these lines with 9...c6.) 10.h3 Nc5 11.Re1 a5 12.Bg5 h6 13.Bf4 Nfd7 14.Be3!? (If White keeps the pressure on d6 via 14.Qd2 Kh7 15.Nb3!?, Black has 15...a4! with equality) 14...a4 15.Rb1 c6 16.Qc2 Qa5, listed by BCO 2 as unclear. Also possible was the Yugoslav 6...c5 7.Nc3 Nc6 8.dxc5 (8.d5 Na5 9.Nd2 transposes to a line of the Panno Variation) 8...dxc5 9.Be3 Be6 10.Qa4 Nd4 11.Rad1 Bd7 12.Qa3 Nc2 13.Qxc5 b6 14.Qg5 h6 with equality, as in Grigorian-Kasparov, USSR 1981. The Panno Variation pays less directly at the center than these, opting instead for Q-side counterplay and later central pressure.

7.Nc3 a6 8.h3

The other main choice is 8.d5 Na5 9.Nd2 c5 10.Qc2 Rb8 11.b3 b5 with very interesting play.

8...Rb8 9.Be3

White can attempt to occupy the center, often going for the quick kill with 9.e4. Then 9...b5 10.e5 Nd7 (10...dxe5 11.dxe5 Qxd1 12.Rxd1 Nd7 13.e6!? fxe6 14.cxb5 axb5 15.Be3 is listed as unclear, with several game attributions in both MCO 13 and BCO 2) 11.e6 fxe6 12.d5 exd5 13.cxd5 Na7 (maybe still 13...Na5 intending 14...Nb7 and 15...Nbc5) 14.Be3 with a slight edge, Kanko-Tiemann, correspondence 1985.

In conversations I had with Dan Joelson during the Loveland Open, he mentioned to me that Geller's book on the King's Indian g3 systems recommends first 9...Bd7 first (the salient difference being that a later b5 is much more difficult for White to get in).

10.Nd2 Na5

Both BCO and MCO list this move as dubious, but in doing so, cite different reasons - which it is interesting and apropos to compare. MCO prefers 10...Bd7 11.Rc1 Na5 12.cxb5 axb5 13.b4 Nc4 14.Nxc4 bxc4 15.b5 d5 (note that 15...Qc8 16.Kh2 c6 would transpose to this game) and awards White a clear edge, as in Beil-W.Schmidt, Sofia 1985. BCO, meanwhile, prefers 10...Bb7!? sacrificing a pawn: 11.cxb5 axb5 12.Nxb5 Na5 13.Qa4 (13.Rc1 Bxg2!) Bxg2 14.Kxg2 Qd7 15.Nc3 Qxa4 16.Nxa4 Nd5, which they mark equal, based on the threat of ...Bxd4, Grunfeld-Nunn, Biel 1986. MCO, however, cites analysis by Nunn which changes the evaluation: 17.Rad1! Rb4 18.b3 Bxd4 19.Bxd4 Rxd4 20.Nc4 Rxd1 21.Rxd1 Nxc4 22.Rxd5 c6 23.Rd4 with a small edge. Of course, in other lines you will find similar differences, with each book good in its own ways.

11.cxb5 axb5 12.b4 Nc4 13.Nxc4 bxc4 14.b5 Bd7 (Diagram 1)

This is the novelty. The main line appears to be 14...d5 15.a4 Bf5 16.a5 with an edge, as in Hjartarson-Ernst, Gausdal 1987. This move, by contrast, attempts to more immediately challenge the White passer, and moving it one file closer to the center. As will be seen, however, it leaves weakness down the critical long diagonal h1-a8, which White could have exploited.

15.a4 Qc8 16.Kh2 c6 17.Rb1

Another possibility is 17.bxc6 Bxc6 18.Bxc6 (18.d5 Nxd5!) Qxc6 19.Rb1 Nd5, but here Black has equality.

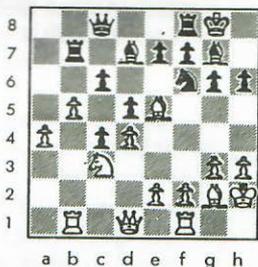

17...d5 18.Bf4 Rb7 19.Be5?! (Diagram 2)

I really don't see the utility of this move. I think White can gain an advantage through either of two more direct methods:

I. Trying to open the long diagonal with 19.e4! Now Black has three lines:

A. 19...dxe4 20.Nxe4 and now: 1. 20...Bf5 21.Nc5! Bxb1 22.Nxb7 Be4! (forced; if 22...Qxb7 23.Bxc6) 23.Nc5 Bxg2 24.Kxg2 cxb5 25.axb5 Rd8 26.b6 and White has a large edge. 2. 20...Nxe4 21.Bxe4 Bxh3 21.Re1! (21.Bxc6 Bxf1 22.Bxb7 also looks favorable, based on his passers, but 22...Qxb7 23.Qxf1 Bxd4 24.Qxc4 Bb6!, which Joelson and I discussed during the Loveland Open, is a tough defense) If Black then plays 21...Bd7 White has 22.b6; here he is a pawn down from variations in (II), but this shouldn't make a difference. In particular, note that Black cannot play 22...Qa8? here because of 23.d5! Therefore 22...Rd8 (22...Be6 23.a5 also) 23.a5 Qa8 (23...Be6 24.a6 with a crush) 24.Bc7 Rc8 25.d5!, and White has a large edge; here in particular the pawns move very easily. 3. 20...cxb5 21.Nc5! Ra7 (21...Rb6 22.a5! and wins) 22.axb5 and the b-pawn can't be stopped.

B. 19...e6 20.b6 Qa8 21.Bd6 Rd8 22.e5 Ne8 23.Bc5 with a clear edge for White.

C. 19...cxb5 20.axb5 dxe4 (else White will play exd5 with effect; note that here 20...e6 is not on for exactly this reason) 21.b6! Qc6 (or 21...Bc6 22.d5!) 22.d5! Qc5 23.Be3 (better than 23.Bc7 which allows Black some freedom through the exchange sacrifice) with advantage.

II. White can also play the immediate 19. b6! Then if 19...Qa8, as in the game, the correct idea is again 20.e4 - note how many of Black's critical pieces are on the long diagonal, as well as the key square for White's success with the b-pawn! Therefore to make progress the diagonal must be cleared. 20...dxe4 (20...e6 21.e5 Ne8 22.Bd2!) 21.Nxe4 Nxe4 (note that neither 21...Bf5 22.Nc5 Bxb1 23.Bxc6! nor 21...Nd5 22.Nc5 Nc3 23.Qc2 Nxb1 24.Nxb7 Qxb7 (24...Na3 25.Qb2 Qxa4 26.Nc5 wins) 25.Rxb1 Bxd4 25.Qxc4 will fly here) 22.Bxe4 Qa5 23.Bc7 Rc8 24.d5! when everything opens up, leaving a big edge for White.

So the whole effect of 19.Be5 has been to give Black a tempo.

20.b6 Qa8 21.Bc7 Rc8 22.a5?

On the surface, the idea looks attractive: control the b7 square through Nc3-a4-c5. However, as we shall see, Black can now eliminate both passers through an exchange sacrifice. These pawns are White's largest advantage (combined with the advantages that accrue from their possession); therefore, he must strive to keep them. 22.e4!, opening the long diagonal, is still the right plan. Then if 22...dxe4 23.Bxe4 or 22...e6 23.e5 with an advantage in either case - in the former, White will soon control the b7 square and win; in the latter, he will take advantage of Black's overworked Queen-side jumble to launch an attack on the King.

22...Qxa5 23.Na4 Rxc7

Precisely. This sac has to be done now, and it must be accepted, as the zwischenzug 24.Nc5 fails to 24...Rxb6.

24.bxc7 Rb5! (Diagram 3)

A fine zwischenzug. Black takes control of the b-file (in some lines ...Qb6 or ...Qb7 may be threatened), and at the same time, blockades many White avenues of attack.

25.Nc5

White does better here by also playing the zwischenzug game with either I. 25.Rxb5!? cxb5 26.Nc5 Qxc7 27.Qa1! Bc6 (preparing ...b4) 28.Rb1 Nd7 29.Na6, and the blockade is tough to break, or II. 25.Ra1! Qxc7 26.Nc5 Qb8 27.e4 Be8 with rough equality - Black's two extra pawns are immobile and White has somewhat better pieces; however, Black has ...Qb6 and ...Rb2 coming, which will even the score.

25...Qxc7 26.Qa4

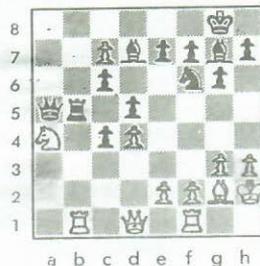

It's probably still a good idea to play 26.Ra1, transposing into the above.

26...Ne8 27.Nxd7 Qxd7 28.Qa8

Not too bad an idea. Note here that 28.Rfd1 (or 28.Rbd1 Qb7, with ...Rb2 to follow) intending e4 doesn't work because Black can exploit the overworked pieces with 28...Bxd4!, and if 28.e3 Qb7! followed by ...Nd6 and Black takes control.

28...e6

The most solid, but I still don't understand why Black cannot immediately play 28...Bxd4, when after 29.Rxb5 cxb5 30.Qxd5 Qxd5 31.Bxd5 Nd6 32.Rb1 Bc5!(and not 32...Bxf2? 33.Bc6! and White should draw) followed by ...b4 Black will win the ending.

29.e4

This move now has no impact, because no critical squares are left on the diagonal.

29...Bxd4 30.Rxb5 cxb5 31.exd5 Kg7

And not 31...exd5? 32.Bxd5 followed by Bc6 and should draw.

32.Qc6

If 32.dxe6 Qxe6 33.Bc6 Nd6 34.Kg2 (to move the rook without loss of the f-pawn) 34...b4! and the passers soon advance.

32...Qxc6 33.dxc6 Nc7! 34.Rd1

Loses the f-pawn, but at this stage what else? Black has fantastic winning chances in this ending; however, an improvement might be 34.Be4 f5 35.Bc2 Kf6 36.Kg2 Ke5 37.Rd1 Bb6, or 37.Rb1 Kd6 though Black should win here too. With this move White attempts to make his King and Rook maximally active; however, it is not enough.

34...Bxf2 35.Bf1 Kf6 36.Kg2 Bb6 37.Rc1 Ke5 38.Bxc4

Black's pawns are ready to advance, hence this last-ditch effort. The rest will be given without comment:

38...bxc4 39.Rxc4 Nd5 40.Kf3 Kd6 41.g4 Bc5 42.g5 Kxc6 43.Rh4 f5 44.Rxh7 e5 45.h4 e4+ 46.Kg3 e3 47.Kf3 Nf4 48.Rh8 Kd7 49.Rb8 e2 50.Rb1 Bb4 51.Rxb4 e1=Q 52.Rxf4 Ke6 53.Kg2 Ke5 54.Rf2 Qe4+ 0-1.

Perhaps the lesson to learn from this game, marred by mistakes on White's side as it was, is the apparent impact of the novelty on move 14. Though both sides understood the opening they were playing well, White's play noticeably declined in the ten moves following the novelty; by the time White seemed to have recovered from the shock his position had gone from quite good to poor, and it was too late. As noted, White missed several chances for better play, including two (both applications of e4!) which were thematic, given the character of the position.

It is difficult to know what was occurring to White during that time; indeed, the above diagnosis may be completely off base! It is interesting, however, that even at the highest level, novelties can throw the opponent off, and thus provide a psychological edge to the innovator regardless of the move's quality.

COLORADO INDIVIDUAL SCHOLASTIC CHAMPIONSHIPS

The 1991 Colorado State Individual Chess Championships were held Saturday and Sunday, February 23-24, 1991 at Fairview High School in Boulder. 140 students competed in seven sections. For grades 4-12 there were two-day "Championship" sections and one-day "Reserve" Sections. For grades K-3 there was a one-day Championship section.

CHAMPIONSHIPS

Robert Rakowsky (Cherry Creek) is the High School Champion. Matt Kahle (Air Academy) took second place trophy and Igor Kroner (South High) took 3rd place trophy. Other high school trophy winners were: Kenneth Bates (Horizon) top 12th grade, Laor Yuval (Fairview) to 11th grade, and Derek Johnson (Fairview) top 10th grade.

Chris Baughman (Colorado Springs) is the Junior High Champion. Ryan Van Hooser (Moore JHS) took second place trophy and Ryan Bertram (Moore JHS) third place. Other junior high trophy winners were Julianne Williams (Longs Peak) top 9th grade, Alex Frasca (Southern Hills) top 8th grade, and Andrew Judkins (Southern Hills) top 7th grade.

Daniel Williams (Hygiene) is the Elementary School Champion and is the only player with a perfect 6-0 score for the weekend. Travis Kopp (Governor's Ranch) took second place trophy and Bryan Bean (Hygiene) third place trophy. Other Elementary trophy winners were Todd Burge (Fort Lupton) top 6th grade, Scott Stanley (Majestic Heights) top 5th grade, Todd VanDeHey (Longmont-3rd grade) "top 4th grade & under", and Abezar Shipchandler (Foothills) top 4th grade.

Archie Branum (Estes Park) is the K-3 Champion. Kyle Thielen (Majestic Heights) took second place trophy and Jessie Branum (Estes Park) 3rd place trophy. Other Primary grade trophy winners were David Goodale (Ivywild) top 3rd grade, Scott Denham (Majestic Heights) top 2nd grade, Robert Brown (Majestic Heights) top 1st grade, and Linda VanDeHey (Longmont) top kindergardner.

RESERVE SECTIONS

The following are the six trophy winners in each Reserve section.

Erik Been (Fairview) took the High School Reserve 1st place, Justin Kronk (Kent Denver) 2nd, Hill Slothower (Kent Denver) 3rd, Eric Rosling (Horizon) top 12th grade, Travis Nelson (Horizon) top 11th grade, Erik Fetzer (Kent Denver) top 10th grade.

Ben Andre (Clear Lake) took the Junior High Reserve 1st place, Mike Embree (Longs Peak) 2nd, and John Chavez (Richel Middle School) 3rd, Dickson Wong (Cherry Creek) took top 9th grade, Allen Christopher (Clear Lake) top 8th grade and Chad Weeden top 7th grade.

Tim Jensen (Hygiene) took Junior High Reserve 1st place, Mason Fox (Fort Lupton) 2nd and Brett Schooler (Hygiene) 3rd. Sam Stone (Longmont East) top 6th grade, Gordon Patrick (Fort Lupton) top 5th grade, and Chris Sandback (Hygiene) top 4th grade.

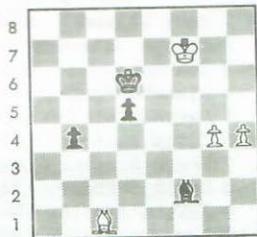

Tournament Directors were Garth Courtois, Randy Siebert, and Susan Stanley, and 8 other parents and volunteers helped make the tournament a success.
