SCHOLASTIC UPDATE

Mark Kriseler - Scholastic Chairman

On November 7th, the Central Colorado Chess League held its first matches. There are 12 teams in the League, which consists of two divisions (North and South). There are six match dates with a playoff and end of year banquet planned. The league has teams from Longmont to the Air Force Academy. The CSCA is funding the league this first year and next year the teams will take over the league operation.

The league is rather unique in that it is a USCF rated league. This means that matches must have certified TDs present. This means that almost all of the coaches have become TDs in order to make their matches rated.

The coaches are the most important part as they have had to get building contracts to use their schools. (All matches are held at schools) They have also provided transportation for their teams and acted as TDs for the matches.

This year the league has teams from programs that are already established. Hopefully at the Scholastic Championships this year, the league will provide a reason for other programs to get more organized so that they can get into the league next year. In the future, league teams may be given status as an official school activity which means an operating budget provided by the school and school coach status for the coaches. Every team in the league where I had a program, back in Michigan, had this status.

From talking to the coaches, the best news is that their players are getting involved and want to know where to find books so that they can get better. Several players who just played casually are now taking their game seriously because they don't want to let down their team. I even heard that one player on a school sports team told his coach that he couldn't participate in the next event because he had a chess match that evening.

But what I really hear is an excitement in Scholastic Chess that has not been there for many years. Almost every master this state has produced came from the scholastic leagues of the 70's during the Fischer boom. Maybe history can repeat itself.

As Scholastic Chairman, I would like to give the biggest THANK YOU to the people who have made this possible. These are the people who in last couple of years have made generous donations to CSCA Scholastics. The trophies, sets, books, old Chess Lives and cash have been instrumental in building up the CSCA Scholastic fund. The fund, which is almost half of all CSCA money, is all from donations. Many of the donations were from the widows of players, like Caswell Silver, Robert Shean and John Foster. Some were from people who used to play, like Royal Franklin and Gil Humphries. Some were from players who you might play next round, like Walter Gerash and Vance Aandahl. It's people like this that make it possible for Scholastic Chess to have a future in this state. THANK YOU!

Please Advance Register for the Boulder Open

- Garth Courtois Jr.
Boulder Open Registrar

The 14th Annual Boulder Open, January 12-13, 1991, will again be at the Clarion Harvest House on 28th Street. See the Tournament section of this Informant for details.

The Boulder Open takes on a new registration system in 1991. Telephone registration will be available the 3 evenings prior to the tournament from 6 to 10 pm. Players may call in and we will check you USCF and CSCA memberships and tell you the amount you need to bring to the tournament. Your advantage in doing this is that you avoid the late registration fee if you phone register and then enter the tournament registration line by 9:15 the morning of the tournament. You can advance register without commitment and still bypass the late registration fee. The time of commitment is the morning of the tournament.

The late registration fee for the Boulder Open is $$ 8.00. It is set high to increase advance registrations, not to increase tournament revenue. A major reason for the late start of Colorado chess tournaments is the last-minute registrants. Those who enter the registration line after 9:15 will pay the late registration fee in addition to regular fees. Registration closes at 9:30. Anyone who has not checked in by 9:30 will not be paired for round 1. Full refunds are available to no-shows.

THE POST-MORTEM

by guest annotator Randy Canney

WHITE: Mikhail Ponomarev BLACK: Mark Scheidies

Colorado Open, 1990, Fourth Round Veresov's Opening

It is always difficult to play tenacious defense when you have a poor position with little counterplay. However, because of the ebb and flow of most games, chances frequently come to those who keep fighting. In this game, Scheidies struggles in a poor position for the first thirty-five moves while Ponomarev logically improves his own position. However, Mark finally gets his own shots in, and a hard-fought draw is the result.

1. d4 Nf6 2. Nc3 d5 3. Bg5 h6

Black has several other alternatives here against Veresov's Opening, including: 3. ... c5; 3. ... c6; 3... Bf5; 3. ... g6; 3. ... e6; and 3. ... Nbd7. 3. ... e6 generally leads to the French Defense after 4. e4.

The most flexible move is probably 3. ... Nbd7, preventing the doubling of Black's pawns. Then 4. f3 c6 5. e4 dxe4 6. fxe4 e5 7. dxe5 Qa5 leads to even but unbalanced play. See Wicher-Perlman in the July, 1990 Colorado INFORMANT for a good discussion of that line.

White can also meet 3. ... Nbd7 with 4. Bf3, aiming for quicker piece play in the center. A good example of Black's play there occurred in Canney-Gurevich, Denver, 1986, which continued: 4. ... g6 5. e3 Bg7 6. Bd3 O-O 7. O-O c5 8. Re1 (Ne5 better) b6 9. e4 dxe4 10. Nxe4 cxd4 11. Nxd4 Bb7 12. c3 Ne5 13. Bc2 Nd5 14. Qe2 h6 15. Bh4 Qc8, when Black had an edge and proceeded to crush me.

4. Bh4

I prefer 4. Bxf6 here, and White seems to get an edge after 4. ... exf6 5. e3 c6 6. Bd3 Bd6 7. Qf3 O-O 8. Nge2 Re8 9. O-O-O b5 10. g4. Black's doubled pawns give White a target to open lines on the king-side.

4. ... Bf5

4. ... e6 is another idea here, as White can no longer transpose into the French Defense.

5. f3 Nbd7

This allows the following fork trick that gives White an edge in the center. Alternatives are 5. ... c6 or 5. ... Bh7.

6. Nxd5! Nxd5 7. e4 Bxe4?

This gives White a dominating central position. A better move is 7. ... N7b6, which leads to some interesting tactics. ECO gives the game Veresov-Maganov, USSR, 1938, which continued 7. ... N7b6 8. exf5 Ne3 9. Qd3 Qxd4 10. Bf2 Qxb2 11. Qb5+ Qxb5 12. Bxb5+ c6 13. Bxc6+ bxc6 14. Be3. This is given as slightly better for White, probably based on the fact that Black must create additional weaknesses by e6 or g6 to develop the kingside. It is important to note that the game position is more frequently reached by the move order 3. ... Bf5 4. f3 Nbd7 5. Kxd5 Kxd5 6. e4 h6 7. Bh4. Transpositions play a critical role in many openings, and can be used to lead opponents into unfamiliar territory.

8. fxe4 Ne3 9. Qd3 Kxf1 10. Qxf1

Another idea is 10. 0-0-0, so as not to move the Queen again and to increase White's lead in development. Both moves give White an edge.

10. ... g5 11. Bg3 e6 12. 0-0-0

The opening has come out in White's favor. He has a nice pawn center, a lead in development, and Black's king-side is weak. Most important is the fact that Black does not have any effective counterplay against White's center.

12. ... Bd6 13. e5 Be7 14. Qb5

White now begins a plan that ties Black up by using play on both sides of the board and by focusing on the weakness at f7.

14. ... Qc8 15. Ne2

It is never enough to just develop a piece, you must know where it is going and how it coordinates with the other pieces and the pawn structure. Here White aims for Nc3 and Ne4. Instead, 15. Nf3 would block the f-file and leave the Knight with a less promising future.

15. ... c6 16. Qd3 b5 17. Rdf1 Nb6 18. Rf2 Qd7 19. Rhf1 0-0-0

Black has no way to guard the pawn at f7. If 19. ... Rf8, White has 20. Qh7. Also, 19. ... Bf8 is met by 20. Rxf7 Qxf7 21. Rxf7 Kxf7 22. Qf3 followed by either Qxc6 or Qf6.

20. Rxf7 Rdf8

Black exchanges off the rooks that are paralyzing his position. The attempt to break out by 20. ... c5 is met by 21. dxc5 Qxd3 22. cxd3 Bxc5 23. Nc3 followed by either Nxb5 or Ne4 with a big edge.

21. Qg6 Rxf7 22. Rxf7 Rf8 23. Rxf8+ Bxf8 24. Qg8 Qe7 25. Nc3 Kd7 26. Ne4 Na4

Guarding against White's threat of Nc5 and trying to drum up a little counterplay with Qb4.

27. Nf6+ Kc7 28. Be1

White's play has been very logical. He has tied up Black's position and found useful squares for his own pieces. Here he relocates the Bishop that has been blocked by its own pawns, and in the process prevents Qb4 and goes after the weak dark squares on Black's queen-side.

28. ... b4

Black is being very tenacious and making the necessary moves in a difficult position. Instead, 28. ... Kb6 loses to 29. Qxf8 followed by Nd7+. The break 28. ... c5 runs into 29. d5. Finally, 28. ... Kb7 would allow 29. a3 with the threat of Bb4.

29. Nh7 Bg7 30. Qa8 Kb6 31. Qb8 Qb7 32. Qxb7

This looks straightforward and seems to win another pawn, but Black has a trick left. Instead, the centralizing move 32. Qd6 attacks the pawns at e6 and b4 and leaves all Black's pieces misplaced. Then, 32. ... a5 allows White to bring his Knight back in with 33. Nf6. If Black takes the Knight, White gets a deadly passed pawn, and if 33. ... Qf7, then 34. Nd7 gives White a winning attack.

32. ... Kxb7 33. Bxb4 c5!

Finally Black gets a shot at White's center.

34. dxc5?

This gives Black the chance to win back some material and get the counterplay he needs. 34. Bc3 looks ugly, but allows White to keep an edge after 34. ... Nxc3 35. bxc3 Kc6 36. Nf6. Then White can bring his King forward, and if Black tries 36. ... Kb5, White gets the e-pawn with Ne8 and Nc7.

34. ... Bxe5 35. Ba3 Bxh2 36. Nf8 Bf4 37. Kd1 e5
38. Ne6 Kc6 39. c4 a5 40. Nd8 + Kc7 41. Nf7 'h5 42. g3 h4!

A nice gain of time, for White can't take the Bishop or the h-pawn queens.

43. gxf4 gxf4 44. Nd6 h3 45. Ne4 h2 46. Nf2 Kc6
47. Re2 e4 48. Nh1 Nxc5?

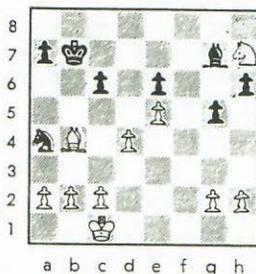

This allows White to liquidate Black's a-pawn by 49. b4. A better chance was offered by 48. ... Bc1. If White plays 49. Nf2, Black has 49. ... Bxb2 50. Bxb2 Nxb2, and if 51. Ke3, then 51. ... Nd1+ is decisive.

After 48. ... Bc1, White can also try 49. Ng3. Then, Black seems to win after 49. ... Bxb2 50. Bxb2 Nxb2 51. Ke3 Nd1+ 52. Kxe4 Nf2+ 53. Kd4 h1(Q) 54. Nxf1 Nxf1 55. Kc3 Kxc5 56. Kb3 Ng3 57. Ka4 Kb6 58. c5+ Ka6 59. c6 Nf5 60. c7 Nd6 and Black should win

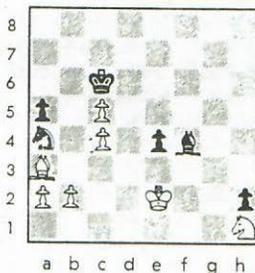

If White plays more passively in these lines and does not bring his king up, then Black gobbles up the rest of the queen-side pawns. The important fact in all these lines is that Black still has his a-pawn and uses the other passed pawns to deflect Whites pieces.

49. b4! axb4 50. Bxb4 Nd3 51. Bd2 Nc1+ 52. Kd1 Bxd2
53. Kxd2 Kxa2 54. Ke3 Nc3 55. Kd4 Na4 56. Kxe4

DAYS INN MATCH OPEN

Oct. 13-14. Denver

Mark Kriseler, Director

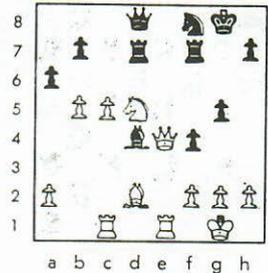

In this tournament each round consisted of a two-game match at G/30 time control. In the crosstable, the first number in each entry is a player's score in the match, and the second is his opponent's number. In some cases matches were split to accommodate Eyes.

EPILOGUE: DEATH OF A VARIATION

The following game inspired me to start writing this article.

Billerica, Mass. Open, 11/4/89, Rd. 2: Mark Schmulevich (2118) (I bet you thought I made that name up in Chapter 6!) - Brian Wall (2251), PIRC: 1 e4 d6 (About once a year I would remember my game with Jim Burnside and play the Pirc. In 17 years this is the closest I've come to repeating Jim's concept.) 2 d4 g6 3 Nc3 Bg7 (I delayed moving my KN so White would have to worry about 4...a6 after 4 Nf3 or 4 Bc4.) 4 f4 (Finally an Austrian Attack!) Nf6 5 Nf3 c5 (I promised myself a long time ago that if I ever got to play my line I wouldn't waste any time coyly seducing White by throwing away the odd minute or so. I wanted my opponent, no matter how weak or strong, to feel the full terror of being trapped in my labyrinth of horrors. I've even timed myself making 30 moves in a minute. I played 5...c5 in the same millisecond Mark was punching his clock. Now the only question is... will he play the theoretically hot line 6 Bb5+?) 6 dc Qa5 7 Bd2 (NOOOOOOOOOOO! When will I be freed from the curse? Or must I wander the earth forever, like the Ancient Mariner, accosting strangers with my strange obsession:

"I pass, like night, from land to land;
I have strange power of speech;
That moment that his face I see,
I know the man that must hear me:
To him my tale I teach."

Even Frank Marshall only had to wait ten years! Why in the world would Mark play 7 Bd2 instead of 7 Bd3? How can anyone play the Austrian Attack and not know about 7 Bd3? One of two things must have happened:

A: I played my moves so fast that he decided to deviate at the first opportunity.
B: He got so confused over the threat of 7...Ne4 that he decided to play supersafe.)
Qxc5 8 Bd3 0-0 (Having carefully played over every move in this article (in the last 3 issues - Ed.) you will understand how relieved I was to castle.) 9 Qe2 (I agonized here for 14 minutes. The chance to play 9...Bd7 and be a tempo up in MY variation was unbelievably tempting. But where's the fun in ...Bd7 if you can't nab the b-pawn. With a heavy heart, I decided to play a Bobby Fischer position a tempo up. I was curious to see what the big deal was about trading on f3.)
Bg4 10 h3 Bxf3 11 Qxf3 Nc6 12 0-0-0 Rac8 (An all-purpose move. 12...Rfc8 seemed too one-sided.) 13 g4 (I'd better do something before he just mates me.) Nd4 (These dark squares are coming in handy already!) 14 Qe3 b5 15 Rhg1 (A clear loss of time. My opponent told me after the game he did not want to play g5 and allow ...Nh5. Black is slightly better after 15 Nxb5 Nxb5 16 Qxc5 Rxc5 17 b4 Rc7. White loses the thread of the game right here.) a5 16 h4 Nd7 (He didn't allow ...Nh5 so I won't allow Na4.) 17 h5 Nb6 18 hg fg 19 Rh1 (White could have used the two tempos he spent on this rook to play Kb1 and Rc1.) b4 20 Nd5 b3 (I had only two minutes for 20 moves. Trading on d5 would have been simpler.) 21 ab Nxb3+ 22 Kb1 Nxd5 23 ed (Mark should have tried the endgame a pawn down. Now it's a trip to the butcher shop.) Nxd2+ 24 Qxd2 Rb8 25 Qh2 Rxb2+ 26 Kc1 Qe3+ 27 Rd2 Rfb8 28 Qxh7+ Kf8 29 c4 Qxd2 mate.

The following game was played a week after I started writing this article.

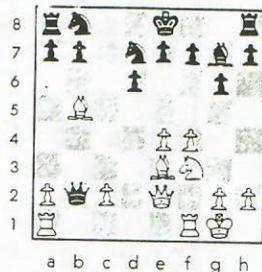

Prospect Hill Open, Watertown, Mass.. Over 2250 Section. Rd. 1
Ilya Gurevich (2558)-Brian Wall (2251). PIRC: 1 e4 d6 2 d4 g6 3 Nc3 Be7 4 f4
Nf6 5 Nf3 c5 6 dc Qa5 7 Bc3 Qxc5 8 Qe2 Bd7 9 Be3 Qb4 10 0-0 Qxb2 11 Nb5
Bxb5 12 Bxb5+

Time on the Clock:
White: 15 minutes
Black: 17 years

Age of the opponents
White: 17 years
Black: 34 years

Yes, Ilya was born at approximately the same time as 8...Bd7! I knew what would happen next: Ilya would spend massive amounts of time in a sea of variations until he smashed into a barrier reef. Having spent 3 minutes, I would only have to sift through the wreckage to find the perfect ending for my article.

After 12 Bxb5+ I became suspicious. He's playing the best line - maybe Rao tipped him off!! Probably ridiculous, but we all know what a paranoid experience a chess game can be! I was tempted to play 12...Nc6 - at least I would be familiar with the variations. But where would I put my knight if he stumbled ont 13 e5? Nfd7* 13 Rab1 Qa3 14 Rb3 Qa5 (Now I was becoming upset for a number of reasons. I had analyzed mostly 13 e5 at home, so Ilya's line took me by surprise. I had also analyzed 13 Bxd7+ Nxd7 14 Rab1 Qxa2 15 Rxb7 Qa4 16 e5 0-0 17 e6 fe 18 Ng5 Bf6 19 Nxe6 Rfb8 20 Rfb1 Rxb7 21 Rxb7 Rc8 22 Rxa7 Rxc2 23 Qd3 Nc5 24 Nxc5 Qxa7 25 Qxc2 dc 26 Qxc5 =. If Ilya wanted to, he could have had this line a pawn up with 19 Bxd7+. But grabbing the a-pawn looked too dangerous after 13 Rab1 Qxa2 14 Bc4 Qa5 15 Bxf7+ Kxf7 16 Qc4+.) 15 Bc4 Qc7 (The stench of Death filled the air, the sky darkened, violent scenes from old WWII movies and GODZILLA VS. BAMBI burst into my brain. I wondered how a squirrel felt at the exact moment he realized he was too old to collect enough nuts for the coming winter. Mr. Gurevich continued to study the board intensely; I looked around for a black armband.

15...0-0 is tempting to sac the b-pawn for play after 16 Rxb7 Nc5 17 Rxe7 Nc6, but this is nonsense. White plays 16 Bd5 Nc6 17 Rxb7 or 16...Nc5 17 Rb5 Qc7 18 Bxc5 dc 19 Bxb7. If 15...e6 to keep the bishop out, 16 f5 pries open the position like a can of Deschner.)

16 Ng5 0-0 17 Bi5 Nc6 (I sat at the board for 27 minutes, frozen in fear. I became petrified of the position, of my opponent, of losing on time. I began hallucinating that Ilya's threats were developing twice as fast as my own, e.g., 17...Nc5 18 f5-fg Nxb3 19 ab-Qh5 hg 20 Bxf7-Qxh7 mate. It also occurred to me after 17...Nb6 18 Bxb6 ab 19 Rh3 that I didn't remember seeing any rooks on h3 in my home analysis. I view the rest of the game as one would a gruesome traffic accident.)

18 Qc4 e6 (From now on we are singing different tunes. White:) 19 Bxe6 (Don't play with me...) fe 20 Nxe6 (... 'cause you're playin' with fire.) Qc8 21 Rxb7 (Don't play with me...) Kh8 22 Rc7 (... 'cause you're playin' with fire.) Na5 23 Qb5 Qe8 (Black:) 24 Nxe7 Kxe7 (Do you really...) 25 Bd4+ Kg8 (...want to hurt me?) 26 Rxd7 Rf7 (Do you really...) 27 Qd5 Qxd7 (...want to make me cry?) 28 Qxa8+ ("White falls into the trap. Only lack of experience can account for this move. White should have considered that a player of my experience and strength could never allow such a move if it were good." - Capablanca, CHESS FUNDAMENTALS) Rf8 29 Qd5+ Qf7 30 Qxa5 1-0.

How do I feel about this game? Allow me to quote again from THE RIME OF THE ANCIENT MARINER by Samuel Taylor Coleridge:

He went like one that hath been stunned,
And is of sense forlorn:
A sadder and wiser man
He rose the morrow morn. 27
